DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL.

VOL. 26. RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA. SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13, 1886 NO. 37.

IS THIS TRUE?

The Silver State says:

The Carson Index of Tuesday last says: "Wm. M. Stewart's election to the U. S. Senate means prosperity to the State and country at large. Workingmen will be benefited, business encouraged, money plenty, and the mining industry of the Pacific Coast invigorated. Every legislator who has the future of the West at heart will vote for the man who can do the most good for the silver producer."

If this laudatory commendation of Mr. Stewart is true, then it is and it was shen folly on the part of the people of Nevada to oppose his election to the United States Senate. But is not Senator Jones conceded to be the peer of Mr. Stewart, and, judging by the record of both while in the Senate, a much abler advocate of the interests of Nevada, yet he has been unable to restore prosperity to the deserted mining camps of the State or benefit the workingmann or the businessman in Nevada. What can Mr. Stewart do to make money plentier or times livelier in Nevada, except to vote for the repeal of the Act suspending the free coinage of silver, which passed, without protest from him, when he pretended to represent a silver producing State in the Senate?

DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

C. C. Powning, Editor & Proprietor

SATURDAY.....NOVEMBER 13, 1886.

SURVEYOR GENERAL.

President Cleveland has appointed Charles F. Irish, of Iowa City, Iowa, United States Surveyor General of Nevada, in place of C. C. Powning. Mr. Powning was notified to resign a month ago, but refused.

Mr. Powning is the last Republican Surveyor General in all the public land States and Territories. He simply has to say that he has endeavored to conduct the office honestly and economically. His books and conduct of the office are open to the inspection of all. His term would have expired March 3d next.

CONCERNING A DEPUTY SHERIFF.

The Enterprise of the 12th says:

The Chronicle (Dem.) thinks that if the Enterprise "will only adhere to its present policy of attempting to ridicule the efforts of General Powning to prevent" the election of Mr. Stewart to the Senate, "it will do much in the way of causing respectable people of all parties to see what a gross injustice has been done Mr. Powning and other leading men of the Republican party."

The Enterprise republishes this silly stuff merely to show to the sturdy, manly, conscientious Republicans of the State the sources from which Powning support in his present warfare on the Republican party. Not a single Republican journal in the State of Nevada upholds Mr. Powning in his efforts to break up the Republican caucus. He is denounced everywhere as a traitor to his party. His support comes wholly from the men whose enmity toward the Republican ticket during the campaign was entirely unconcealed.

The Enterprise maintains that Mr. Powning is no longer a Republican; that any man whose childish disappointment over political defeat leads him to give aid and comfort to the enemy must be looked upon as a traitor, and that Mr. Powning's efforts against the Republican legislative ticket in Washoe county put him in the Democratic camp.

So long as an office-seeker makes his greed for place subordinate to his party allegiance, no fault can be fairly found with him; but the moment his personal spite leads him to break over the traces and work against his former friends, that moment he should be shown that the men who are faithful to duty and to principle have no further use for his company.

During the whole campaign Mr. Powning protested in his newspaper that he was a Republican in everything except his allegiance to the Legislative ticket. He was opposed to that first, last and all the time. Any political trickster, who had sagacity enough to subordinate malice to policy, would have endeavored to give the public the same impression. By his factious opposition to a part of the ticket he endangered it all. He deserves no recognition at the hands of the party, nor will he receive any.

So far as we can learn he has not succeeded in imposing his peculiar views upon a single member of the new Assembly. His campaign is mainly composed of froth, with a strong admixture of Democratic tobacco juice.

It is of very little moment to Mr. Powning what the imported New York carpet bag editor of the Enterprise thinks of his Republicanism. The soul of the Enterprise is not its own. That paper is owned by rich men, and its policy is dictated by Mr. Yerington, Supt. of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad, who is the mouthpiece of D. O. Mills, one of the Enterprise owners, and who has supported more Democrats for office than ever Mr. Powning did. Mr. Mackay, the other partner in the Enterprise, is solely responsible for the defeat of the Republicans of Nevada in 1880, and the election of Mr. Fair to the Senate and this too while he was a member of the Republican Committee. This year he is again recognized as a leader in the Republican party, and, with the aid of the railroads, is forcing Mr. Stewart to the Senate against the protest of the Republican party of the State. The JOURNAL has never taken any other stand than that a Republican should be sent to the Senate from Nevada, but has opposed and will continue to oppose the selection of Mr. Stewart, whose candidacy is the most unparalled piece of effrontery ever presented in the political history of the State. If there are no other Republican papers in the State occupying this position it is because they have reasons for following the lead of the Enterprise. The Enterprise is also mistaken when it asserts that Mr. Powning caused the defeat of the Republican legislative ticket in Washoe. He may have contributed to the defeat of the nominee for Senator, and he has no apology to offer, but it was the leading Republican business men of the county who voted against the ticket as a rebuke to the railroads for interfering in Washoe politics. Mr. Powning's influence is too insignificant to have changed the opinion of these men had he been ever so much inclined. These voters of Washoe are free and independent, and they will not vote for anything they do not believe is right. The Enterprise and the railroads may howl, but Mr. Powning will vote the Republican ticket as long as he pleases with or without their consent, and they shall endeavor to do what is for the best interests of the people, or he will oppose them. Mr. Stewart gave the newspapers $5,000, but the State Central Committee did not pay the JOURNAL for any advertising. Two years ago the JOURNAL gave the Committee its columns free of charge, and it can get along another campaign on the same basis. And if they can't afford to pay two years hence it will be pleased to publish all of the advertisements without compensation. Its editorial columns are its own and it will continue to advocate those principles which it believes for the best interest of the Republican party and the people, and the tie-ridden, coration Enterprise may continue on in the even tenor of its way, always remembering that the people are with the JOURNAL in this fight, and that they are emphatically opposed to the election of Mr. Stewart, but will be satisfied with Mr. Wren, Mr. Boyle, Mr. Woodburn, Mr. Daggett, Mr. Foley, Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Kinkead, Mr. Stevenson, or any bona fide Republican of the State. If Yerington was a voter the JOURNAL would prefer him to Mr. Stewart.

And Mr. Stewart will not be the next Senator from Nevada.

Interesting To Statesmen.

It is said at the Nautical Almanac Office that on the evening of Saturday next, November 13th, no less than six stars including Aldebaran, which is of the first magnitude, will be occulted by the moon between 6 o'clock and midnight. Some of the stars are of only fifth and sixth magnitude, and will require telescopic aid to be seen, but Aldebaran and two others of the fourth magnitude will be visible to the unassisted eye, or by use of an opera glass.

No Show for Stewart There.

PHILADELPHIA, November 11th.—In the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry this morning, a resolution was submitted by a delegate from Illinois favoring the election of United States Senators by the people.

The Virginia Footlight (Dem.) charges that certain Democratic and "hermaphrodite" papers are trying to blackmail Hon. W. M. Stewart.—Gazette.

This is enough of this sort of thing. There is not a newspaper in Nevada supporting Stewart that has not been bought with railroad gold. There is not a paper in the State, supporting Stewart, that has not been paid money for it, except the Enterprise, which is owned by D. O. Mills and Mackay.

A Healthful Occupation.

New York World.

Loring Pickering, editor of the San Francisco Call, has just become father to a vigorous boy. Mr. Pickering is seventy-five years old, and some time ago married for the third time. Journalism on the Pacific coast seems to be a healthful occupation.

There was a slight shock of earthquake at Reno, Nevada, yesterday. Considering the infamous practices at the recent election in that State, the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah, and other instances of Divine retribution, Nevadans may reasonably expect a general shaking up of their "rotten borough" before the sack-elected Legislature meets next January.—Salt Lake Democrat.

Resolved, That we are unalterably in favor of "home rule in Nevada, and maintain that men who pay their taxes and whose homes and interests are identified with this State should control its politics."—Republican Platform.

THE PEOPLE'S VICTORY.

The San Francisco Chronicle says:

The Democrats have secured a majority of the Legislature and will elect a United States Senator to succeed A. P. Williams, who was chosen at the extra session to fill the unexpired term of Miller. We have no desire to moralize upon the result. We simply wish to state that it is due to the insolence and arrogance of the Southern Pacific of Kentucky, whose managers openly announced their intention of replacing in power a man once rejected by the people, and whose claim to recognition was devotion to corporations.

While the Los Angeles convention which nominated Swift was in session, there was not a sound political judge in the State who did not regard California as safe for the Republicans by at least 15,000 majority. The imbecile and extravagant course of the Democratic Administration seemed to make such a result inevitable. But the men who ran the Republican political ship permitted a Jonah in the shape of C. P. Huntington to creep on board and bring disaster to the party.

Every one at all familiar with the situation knows that a portion of the resident railroad management was becoming amenable to reason. It had been given out that after deliberate consideration of the subject the managers at Fourth and Townsend streets had come to the conclusion that it would pay to abandon the system of submitting to blackmailing politicians and permit the money squandered in that fashion to remain in the pockets of patrons by giving them the benefit of reductions imperatively demanded. Whether these professions were sincere or otherwise we do not know. But we know that such a course would have been eminently wise, and would have tended to abate the deep-seated hostility against the railroad felt by the people of California, chiefly because of its corrupt and unwarranted interference in politics.

It was impossible, however, for the railroad to persevere in such a course, even if it had once contemplated it. C. P. Huntington could not relinquish what he conceived to be a prerogative, and he hastened to the Pacific Coast, and Democrat though he was, he at once issued his ukase that a Legislature should be elected which would send A. A. Sargent back to the Senate. There was no concealment about the matter. Mr. Huntington coolly said, "I mean to do so, and what are you going to do about it?"

Mr. Huntington has his answer. The people have said their say. They have converted a handsome Republican majority into a Democratic one. They are so stunned at the audacity of the demand made upon them that they forget all about Stoneman's imbecility and other Democratic miscarriages. They had an eye single to one purpose, and that was to beat Sargent, no matter what the consequences, and they carried out their purpose.

And now we trust that the men whose supple knees bent when Huntington appeared upon the scene, are sorry for their work. It will be a fine thing for them and the party when they are able to assimilate the idea that when the issue is clear cut the people can beat the corporations. The railroad can only succeed when its objects are cloaked. It can never win in a square fight, and at the risk of being considered slangy, we wish to say to politicians, "Don't you forget it!"

HUMBOLDT COUNTY RETURNS

The Silver State says:

The vote at the recent election in this county shows that party lines were almost wholly ignored, and that personal popularity of each candidate has more to do with his success or defeat than party politics. MacMillan, who represented political principles nearer than any other candidate on the Democratic ticket, received a majority of 337 votes while Davis, nominee for Lieutenant Governor on the Republican ticket, received a majority of 172. The Legislative ticket is mixed, McConnell and Ward, Democrats, and Powell, anti-Stewart Republican, having been elected. For local offices the returns show that voters used their pencils freely on election day, and the ballots cast were badly scratched, Republicans voting for Democrats and Democrats voting for Republicans, mixed tickets being the rule and straight ones the exceptions.

THE HASTINGS BENEFIT.—The committee who have had charge of the entertainment given for the benefit of our respected townsman, Walter Hastings, desire to return their heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted and aided in carrying out the programme, and making the affair an entire success. They would especially tender their thanks to John Wilson, who kindly tendered the use of his theater free; to the Reno papers for their kind and timely mention, and to all those who participated and contributed their services in making the concert a success. The expenses, $16; receipts, $166; leaving a balance of $150, which was be sent to Mr. Hastings, at Sacramento last evening. COMMITTEE.

OPPOSED TO A CAUCUS.—Hon. Thos. Wren, of Eureka, passed westward last night. He emphatically declared to a friend at the Depot Hotel that he was a candidate for the Senate, in favor of a free fight, opposed to a caucus, and always and forever against Stewart. When the tie-ridden Enterprise learns this Mr. Wren will be read out of the Republican party.

LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES. — J. L. Smith, of Eureka, is mentioned as a candidate for Speaker of the House. Evan Williams, of Ormsby, for President pro tem of the Senate, and Cap. F. C. Lord, Warden of the Penitentiary.

NOTICE.—There will be an entertainment given at the Baptist Church on the evening of the 19th of November, in the shape of a "Pink Tea," for the benefit of the Sabbath School.

METORIC SHOWERS OF NOVEMBER.—The Providence, R. I., Journal says of November meteors: One of the marked features of the month is the recurrence of the November meteors. The November meteors-zone is a gigantic eclipse peopled with countless myriads of tiny meteors. Its perihelion rests on the earth's orbit, its aphelion being beyond the orbit of Uranus. Its boundaries are therefore entirely within the solar system, and it probably owes its presence within the solar borders to the attraction of the planet Uranus, who captured a comet when it came too near his mighty mass and changed its orbit into an eclipse. The comet in disintegrating is being transformed into swarms of particles following in the train of the comet and forming the meteoric showers. On the 14th of November the earth plunges through this meteoric-zone, the meteors and the earth moving with immense velocity and in different directions. The meteors come full tilt upon the earth's atmosphere, are inflamed by the concussion and descend in the form of falling stars. Comet 1, 1866, is the name of the imprisoned comet, and the maximum show occurs once in thirty-three years, for when she comes round the swarming particles are thicker than leaves in Vallambrosa, and there is a veritable rain of falling stars. The year 1899 will usher in the grand exhibition, and until that time observers must be contented with sometimes a few and sometimes many meteors. There is always an excitement in observing a fall of meteors, for one never knows what new and complicated wonders may arise to award the patient watcher. The November meteors are known as Leonids, for their radiant point is in the constellation Leo. The best time to look for them is on the nights of the 13th, 14th and 15th, and about 3 o'clock in the morning, when Leo is well up in the east. The moon two days after the full, will interfere with the exhibition. The Bielan meteors have their anniversary on the 27th. They are called Andromads, as their radiant point is in the constellation Andromeda. There was a superb show of Bielan meteors last year, and as this is an off years not much is anticipated, but it is well for students of the stars to be on the lookout.

MUCH GOOD ORE LEFT.—The San Francisco Chronicle says: "While the bonanza days of the Comstock would thus seem to be over, the era of its active and perhaps profitable production is by no means ended, it being calculated that there is still left in the upper workings of these mines enough ore to keep all the mills in the district steadily employed for many years to come. As the bulk of this ore will yield from $12 to $18 per ton, and it can be mined and milled for about $10, there will be left here still a chance for making some money if means can be provided for handling this ore in large quantities. To accomplish that end not only are all the existing mills capable of doing good work to be put in prime order, but new mills are to be built and propelled by the water that was before used in driving the hydraulic pumps in the lower levels of the mines. As the new supply of water, also originally designed for operating these pumps, will not now be needed for that purpose, it too will be employed as a mill motor, the intention being to construct a number of quartz mills along Six-mile canyon to be propelled by this water. These mills are to be located the one so far below the other that the same flow of water will suffice to drive the entire series. This policy effectually carried out, by affording employment to a large number of men, will suffice to keep life for a good while yet in Virginia and Gold Hill, and even maintain the many interests and industries mainly dependent on these Washoe mines for support in a tolerably prosperous condition. Though moribund, crippled and disemboweled the Comstock giant dies hard.

The Carson Tribune says:

Senator Evan Williams is spoken of for the position of President pro tem of the Senate. No better selection could be made, for the Senator is thoroughly acquainted with parliamentary rules and usages and conversant with legislative affairs. His address is good and Senatorial management could not be placed in better hands.

Mrs. Alt's regular soiree will be held at Armory Hall to-night.

ONE OF SENATOR FAIR'S LETTERS OF DECLINATION.

The Eureka Sentinel says:

Senator Fair wrote two letters declining to be a candidate for the Nevada Senatorship. One was addressed to Mr. Garrard, Superintendent of the Carson Mint, and the other to Gen. R. P. Keating, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. The latter was more formal in its character than the former. Both should have been promptly given to the public. It is the duty of men and parties to take the whole people into their confidence. Concealments are alike insincere and silly. The writer of this paragraph protested strongly against the policy of secrecy. The State Central Committee made a grave mistake. An able leader once said that a mistake in politics is a crime. The Democratic State Central Committee seemed to entertain the idea that doubt as to Fair's candidature would bring strength to the ticket. As a matter of fact the people of the State did not want Fair. No Republican wanted him, and a great majority of Democrats were opposed to him at any price. He was regarded everywhere as being as much of a non-resident and carpet-bagger as Stewart. He had not registered or voted in the State since 1880. As between the two carpet-baggers, Fair and Stewart, each Republican voter preferred the carpet-bagger of his own party. Not a corporal's guard of either party in the State wanted either. The true issue was clouded all through the campaign. The fear of Fair stepping in and taking advantage of a Democratic Legislature to elect himself on the one hand, and the hope of beating Stewart with some resident Republican on the other, lost the State to the Democracy. Standing out alone as the only and recognized candidate of the Republican party, Stewart could not have polled 2,000 votes in the State. A carload of money could not have elected him, But he was not allowed to stand alone. The people were hoodwinked into the belief that Dagget, Wren or Powning would have a show. Our own managers, innocently, aided in mystifying and muddling the situation by keeping back Fair's letters. Fear that the latter would come in cost us as many votes as the hope that a home Republican would in the end defeat Stewart. For one, the writer does not reproach himself. He kept nothing from the people. He declared from pretty much every stump, as well as in private conversations, that Fair had written letters from his home in San Francisco declining to be a candidate. Whether in or out we were against him, on the ground of non-residence. Fair and Stewart were in the same category. Neither had any business in Nevada politics.

A LESSON OF THE ELECTION.

This is what the San Francisco Call thinks:

The detailed returns of the election exhibit some noteworthy facts. So far as the legislative ticket is concerned the Democratic leaders concentrated their efforts on the city, leaving the country Democrats to take care of themselves. Thus they carried four fifths of the Senatorial seats in the city and three-fifths of the city seats in the Assembly; while of the Senatorial seats in the country they only carried a bare majority, and they lost a majority of the Assemblymen from the country. To those who understand the difference between the average quality of city voters and the average quality of country voters, the fact tells its own story. The would-be United States Senator invested his money where it would do the most good. Again, the Democratic Legislative conventions in the country exhibited unusual sagacity in making their nominations. While the Republicans were often indifferent as to the quality of their nominees, trusting to Republican principles to pull them through, the Democrats, wherever they could, put forward their very best men. Hence we find that, though Swift carried Los Angeles by something like 500 votes, the county sends two Democrats to the Senate. Why? Because the Republican nominees could not compare in personal strength to Rose, the wine-grower, and Stephen M. White. Again, Swift carried Shasta; but the county sends Dr. Briceland to the Senate, because it had no Republican who could compare with him in popularity or experience. So Alameda, that reliable Republican stronghold, sends to the Senate Moffitt, who possessed peculiar elements of strength. It was perhaps the nomination of Ben Langford to the Senate from San Joaquin which saved that county to the Democrats. Running an eye hastily over the successful candidates to the Assembly, we find evidence of the same sound judgment displayed by the Democracy in choosing their nominees. Such men as Allen Henry of Tehama, Judge Granger of Butte, Geo. Ohleyer of Sutter, Henry Mahler of El Dorado, J. E. Britt of Lake, J. W. Bost of Mariposa, and J. H. Matthews of San Benito, are all far above the average of Assemblymen in character and acquaintance with public affairs. Such nominations were likely to command success, not only for the nominees themselves, but for the whole Democratic ticket. If the Republican conventions had been equally select in choosing candidates, they might have carried the Legislature.

It seems a stale truism to say that it will not answer to put a weak man on a strong platform; both man and platform must be strong to insure success.
